

Pro Carton ECMA Carton Award

Roland Rex, President Pro Carton

Introduction by Roland Rex, President Pro Carton and Andreas Blaschke, President ECMA

Yet another record-breaking year for the 20th Pro Carton ECMA Award: more participants, from more countries, with even more entries. This goes to show that the Pro Carton ECMA Award is both an attractive and recognised platform for the cartonboard and carton industry to present itself together with packaging designers, brand owners and the retail trade.

Andreas Blaschke, President ECMA

The message is clear: the importance of packaging as a marketing instrument continues to grow, and sustainability is stepping up its role as part of brand identity. And cartons

- are getting smarter as well as developing a versatile interior design: with issues such as safety closures, product arrangement or presentation being addressed.
- offer sustainable alternatives to other packaging materials - in particular with regard to plastics which are not that popular with consumers.
- are becoming a consciously applied marketing tool and active sales instrument in the age of multi-channel marketing.
- underline the sustainability aspects of brand management and are seeing more targeted use.
- are a "visual treat" at the Point of Sale: not only with "vivid" colours, but even more so through structural design.

The judges from all sections of the Supply Chain were impressed by the surprising and convincing ideas: Satkar Gidda (SiebertHead, Chairman of the Jury) was responsible for design and marketing together with Susanne Lippitsch (SL Design), and Wilfried Duivenvoorden (Unilever) for the brands. Lotte Krekels (Carrefour) represented the views of the retail trade, Peter Strahlendorf (publisher of "New Business") judged on behalf of the market and consumers. Peter Klein Sprockelhorst acted as consultant to the jury with regard to the technical finesse of the submitted concepts, and we would like to thank them all for their tremendous effort!

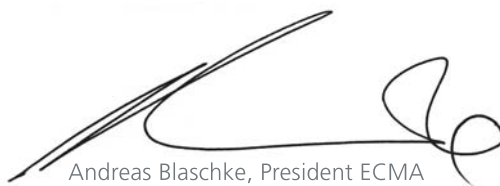

On 15th September 2016, the prizes were awarded in festive surroundings at the ECMA Congress in Antibes/Juan-les-Pins in France. A comprehensive PR and Marketing Package from Pro Carton ensures that the trade press throughout Europe reports on the winners and finalists and their entries.

New this year is the presence on the most important Social Media channels: share, "like" and communicate on the finalists and winners at www.procarton.com.

The competition's big success will continue next year: the 2017 Award entry terms and conditions will be published in February as always, and deadline for submissions is 25th May 2017. We already look forward to an abundance of new ideas!

September 2016

This year we had the highest number of entries ever and whilst I could not detect a theme running through the various packs, it was evident that certain entries did make the jury members smile as they discovered the cleverness or simplicity or sheer innovation of some of the packs – not immediately evident.

It is also good to state that all categories were well represented, making our task harder of course. On this occasion, judging took longer than ever. Not just because of the number of entries but mainly because of the quality, as there was little to choose between the shortlisted groups of packs within each category.

I am also delighted to say that once again there were 'not seen that before' entries. Really excellent thinking with the consumer in mind. We all like packs that are not only appealing to look at but ones we can interact with or ones that have other sensory elements to them.

Carton packaging that carries the key elements of the product and therefore make a holistic presentation, one that reflects the product inside the carton, make for a very powerful and appealing presentation and we certainly see that more and more, which might suggest that all elements of the chain are working together to achieve the brand objectives.

In closing and on behalf of all the jury members, thank you to all of the entrants and we can honestly state that each year the quality just gets better.

Official Name of Entry | My. Von Erl
Entrant | AR Packaging Group

Carton Producer | A&R Carton Graz
 Brand Owner | Von Erl
 Structural Designer | Heinz Steinkellner, Mario Rassi
 (A&R Carton Graz)
 Graphic Designer | Barbara Lackner (Mut Creative)
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Metsä Board

Jury Comments:

From the front face the carton looks like a refined, premium pack with lovely embossing, hot foil and varnishes. It is not until you open it that the My. Von Erl pack really makes you say 'wow'. Without the use of any other material other than cartonboard, the pack holds together and presents beautifully, all of the elements and extras needed for this eCigarette product. The board engineering is truly impressive.

Beauty from within

The Carton of the Year is a magnificent example of the options offered by cartonboard. The structural designer and the customer sales department worked together closely on this project right from the beginning. The idea was to replace an existing pack through a better one in every respect: the customer wanted an even more sustainable pack than before, it was to be easy to handle while being robust and efficient for storage. The benchmark was high and one thing was clear: the answer could only be cartonboard.

First of all, the pack impresses through its understatement: an elegant premium look with that certain touch. The graphic design is stylish and urban, it is directed at cultivated, modern people. The discrete and clear appearance gives no indication of the complexities of its interior. All is revealed when opening. The clear graphic design was enriched with embossing, hot foil and a semi-matt varnish. The noble and subtle design also affords a very pleasant tactile experience.

Official Name of Entry | Beam-Box
Entrant | Fr. Schiettinger (Göppingen)

Carton Producer | Fr. Schiettinger
 Brand Owner | Varta Consumer Batteries
 Structural Designer | Varta/Fr. Schiettinger (Göppingen)
 Graphic Designer | Varta Consumer Batteries
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Moritz J. Weig

Jury Comments:

Not only an eye catching carton but new for the battery sector where the batteries are held within a carton container without the need for a plastic blister and yet is properly reclosable – a clear advantage over the blister packs.

Cartonboard all the way

Attractive, sustainable, innovative and practical to use – this triangular carton simply has everything good packaging needs. It is sustainable, not just because it is made of cartonboard only, but also due to its storage function. The customer had asked for a recloseable carton as normally only individual batteries are removed from the pack and the others stored. The pack is secured via a special closure system which can be opened and closed easily. A solution ideal for cartonboard.

The Beam Box is not only an eye-catcher, it is highly functional as well and sends out a powerful message. The striking shape of the pack picks up on Varta's visual logo (triangular shape of a light beam) and fits in perfectly with the positioning of their brand. This provides perfect brand recognition at the Point of Sale. An additional clincher is the variety of ways of presenting the product, for example, the cartons can be displayed as circles or pyramids, with and without showing the product.

Official Name of Entry | Pago Fruit Juice: Honeydew-Mango Promotion

Entrant | Mayr-Melnhof Packaging International

Carton Producer | Mayr-Melnhof Packaging Austria

Brand Owner | Eckes-Granini Austria

Structural Designer | Gerlinde Gruber & Thomas Parkfrieder

Graphic Designer | Martha Ploder & Gerlinde Gruber

Cartonboard Manufacturer | WestRock

Jury Comments:

As we have seen many times in the past, some of the simplest cartons have won awards and this Pago pack is no different. In a very creative way the packaging holds and presents an extra bottle either as bonus or to introduce another flavour, while the body of the carton holds the main content of juice bottles. Simple, effective and a great marketing tool.

Pure joie de vivre

The idea started off with the customer looking for a new way to fixate sampling bottles. The focus was on replacing the adhesive tape which had so far been used to fixate the sampling bottles in the crate, whilst supporting branding at the same time. The reason being that the solution with the adhesive tape was time-consuming and always looked somewhat untidy. Now the sampling bottles can be secured during running production and without slowing down the production line.

At the same time, the customer wanted to attract catering customers to a new variety of Pago fruit juice in an elegant manner. The two graphic designers who had already developed the design elements for the new brand identity created a colourful layout and an amazingly simple fixation system, which allowed full branding and can also be used to provide additional information for special promotions. The cartonboard is easy to remove completely and can be fully recycled.

Official Name of Entry | Flormar All Eyes on Me Collection
Entrant | Printpark

Carton Producer | Printpark
 Brand Owner | Kosan Kozmetik
 Structural Designer | Printpark
 Graphic Designer | Kosan Kozmetik
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Metsä Board

Jury Comments:

The Flormar All Eyes on Me Collection certainly achieved the 'all eyes on me' claim. All the judges were fascinated by these little packs that not only had to achieve brand and product communication but through the effect of print techniques and 'flock' it had this amazing in-hand feel which just had to be touched.

Sexy carton

This carton design presents newly developed products in a highly attractive manner. To attract customers' attention, the design focuses on two highly current trends: the houndstooth pattern which is very popular in the textiles and cosmetics industry, and the equally as popular velvety texture. This resulted in the cosmetics industry's first carton with a velvety decoration on a matt metalised surface. The velvety surface even rounds the corners without breaking.

Using special foil printing (flock printing) in combination with high-quality UV-printing, the pack is given that very special finish, making it extremely attractive for the product at the Point of Sale. It can be filled automatically as this printing technology is highly robust and resistant. The trendy presentation in the current fashion look made some of the products so successful, both in terms of sales and consumer feedback, that they have been included in the programme permanently.

Cosy

The pillow pattern on this carton immediately conjures up the well-known design of the MIU MIU leather bags – a demanding packaging design specifically targeted at young consumers. Sophistication combines well with elegance and the association with haute couture. The finishing in particular – embossing and hot foil – demands considerable technical precision and expertise.

Carton Producer | STI Group

Exclusive quality

This packaging does two things at once: the unusual design in the shape of a bag attracts attention, while the finishing underlines the exclusiveness of the products. In combination with discrete hues of silver and grey, the bright white of the carton stands for special purity. Promotional messages are omitted completely to underline the high quality of the products.

Official Name of Entry | Polz Brandy XO
Entrant | Cardbox Packaging Holding

Carton Producer | Schachner-Pack
 Brand Owner | Weingut Erich & Walter Polz
 Structural Designer | Schachner-Pack
 Graphic Designer | Brokat Werbeagentur
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Stora Enso

Jury Comments:

In the view of the judges, the packaging for this 0.5l XO bottle from the Polz family worked very well holistically. Graphically it looks smart, elegant and premium with subtle use of gold and the 2 piece carton construction complements this with an elegant, almost book-like appearance while providing adequate protection for the bottle without overpackaging.

Noble by nature

For their new product, the customer wanted an attractive and expressive packaging. And they got it! In record-breaking time, too: the two-part packaging for the special shape of the brandy bottle – a box part with lid and an insert which is fixated by pressing down the flaps – was on the market within three months.

The unpretentious but noble look for a high-quality product was created through a combination of black and gold with the brown natural fibres on the inside – a natural dialogue with the colour of the brandy. The transparent writing is well visible depending on the incidence of light. Design and holistics of this pack convey the noble naturalness of the contents. This is accentuated by printing with a matt soft touch varnish and a glossy dispo-varnish spot on top. The packaging is erected manually and filled and presented in specialised trade outlets, where it attracts attention immediately.

The charm of luxury

"The Golden Age of Paris" was the topic for this limited edition in the colours violet and gold, with a pattern reminiscent of the steel construction of the Eiffel Tower. The logistic constraints – the small maximum defined footprint – and the extreme level of quality were key factors for this unique concept which completely dispensed with windows made of plastic.

Elitist values

Extremely successful and already reordered – a two-part construction with mounted lid and base closure. The shapes of product and carton are in perfect harmony. The pack is laminated with a soft touch foil and application of glossy UV spot varnish elements. This highlights the extreme exclusivity of the product – Elite is regarded as the world's best rated vodka.

Entrant | Karbest

Carton Producer | Karbest
 Brand Owner | De Neuville
 Structural Designer | Karbest
 Graphic Designer | De Neuville
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Stora Enso

Jury Comments:

Clever, attractive, innovative and fun were just some of the words used to describe this carton that contains mini chocolate eggs, without the need for any plastic at all. It was evident that the shape of this pack will have high impact on-shelf and appeal to the target market of children.

Sweet chicks

Two classical objectives clearly dominated the development of this carton from the beginning: high visual attractiveness and a real added benefit. The silhouette was to remind of an Easter Egg, and the customer did not want any plastic packaging at all, but a one hundred percent sustainable concept. This solution was chosen from the four presented structural designs – an unusual design with attractive graphics and which can be erected automatically.

The secondary packaging for chocolates is made from materials which are also exceptionally well suited for foods – and replaces the plastic packaging normally used. The cartonboard chicks can also be used as toys or for holding pencils, paper clips or the like on a desk. The high attraction level at the Point of Sale, also for a young audience, fully met the customer's expectations.

 Structural Designer | Susanna Sotka, Juuso Lindqvist (A&R Carton Oy)
 Graphic Designer | Shandy, Max Söderholm, today BusDir (Omnicom Media Group Finland)
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Stora Enso

Jury Comments:

Whilst the product content had no bearing on the judging and the pack, outwardly, is nothing special, the judges were amazed at the internal engineering of the pack, which allowed it only to be opened by depressing the highlighted (in yellow) areas to open the pack and where the contents were also safely secured.

At the push of a button

The history of this child-proof packaging already began in 2014. It was required for a totally novel product which contained calming substances. One can see at a glance that it is intended for dog owners. A dark blue background shows the contours of a dog's head, alongside product information and instructions for use. The main requirement was for a closure mechanism which could be opened and closed at least ten times. For easier handling by adults, the touch areas for opening are highlighted in colour.

The structural core idea was to produce the carton in a single run on the machine as well as filling in a single run. One and a half years of development time, numerous designs and many tests were necessary to find this fascinating and totally novel solution: a child-proof box made of a single material! No plastic parts, neither inside or outside! Functionality, usability and sustainability are absolutely state-of-the-art.

Sympathy and purity

The basic idea behind this concept was to avoid rattling and other noises, as this reflected the philosophy of the product: discrete quality. The high white ratio provides a feeling of purity and naturalness, the use of colour on the inside is for reasons of functionality, making opening an experience as well as guiding the user visually through the process of unpacking.

For a better life

A complete relaunch for an attractive direct-marketing product which supports quality of life: a tray construction which can be used vertically or horizontally. Official Name of Entry | Coffee Capsules
Entrant | Rattpack Group

Carton Producer | Rattpack Group
 Brand Owner | Amann Kaffee
 Structural Designer | Rattpack Group
 Graphic Designer | zurgams kommunikationsagentur
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Metsä Board

Jury Comments:

It would be fair to say that this pack for Amann Kaffee is indeed stylish and would not look out of place, visible in the kitchen. The pack itself contains 4 different types of coffee capsules where each variety is featured on the 4 different main faces of the pack. The carton is a beautiful construction and feels good in the hand and to the touch thanks to the use of various print finishes. This is complemented by a secure, magnetic opening and closing 'lip'.

Cool look

This carton is both unusual and convincing: it is trendy, stylish, cool and sustainable, can be reclosed and is of unique quality – and is a major sales success. As a promotional pack it offers the option of trying different coffee varieties as well as placing this practical dispenser next to the coffee machine, always keeping the brand in the consumer's view. The selected structural design greatly exceeds the usual expectations for carton packaging. The number of coffee pods is four times higher than normal, and the option of securely resealing the pack with a magnet is unique. Each of the four coffee varieties is represented on one of the four main faces of the pack.

The graphic design plays with special printing effects (matt and glossy UV printing, hot foil and embossing) and is yet quite reduced. The packaging only generates a quarter of the waste normally associated with the usual packaging in this product segment.

Official Name of Entry | M&S Curry KitEntrant: FirstanCarton Producer | FirstanBrand Owner | Marks and SpencerStructural Designer | Paul StevensGraphic Designer | KestrelCartonboard Manufacturer | Billerud Korsnäs*Maximum effect

Official Name of Entry | Camacho Cigar Packaging U.S. market
Entrant | PAWI Verpackungen

Carton Producer | PAWI Verpackungen
 Brand Owner | Oettinger Davidoff
 Structural Designer | Stephan Springer PAWI Verpackungen
 Graphic Designer | Scott Birtwistle
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Iggesund

Jury Comments:

A completely new way of presenting cigars using cartonboard instead of tin. Very eye catching and totally unexpected giving rise to a lot of interest from the judges.

How very masculine

When talking cigars, one generally thinks of packaging made of tin or wood. But this solution made of cartonboard has numerous advantages: it saves on resources, is more environment-friendly and amazingly lightweight, leading to considerable savings in logistics. And it allows perfect visual design. Yet further proof that cartonboard packaging has its place in packaging areas otherwise dominated by materials which are less resource-saving and less environment-friendly.

The connection between lid and base creates a lifting effect when opening, thus perfectly presenting the three premium cigars. The cavity wall packaging with machine-applied magnetic closure adds to the value of the product. The rounding of the inlay is reminiscent of a barrel. The shape of this version has proved so convincing that it is also being used for other product versions under the name of "Half moon" shape. The masculine and reduced design only features black and grey and reminds strongly of metal motorcycle elements. The packaging leaves no doubt about the target group: real men!

Non-slip saddle

Elegant, versatile, robust, shelf-ready, minimalistic - this is how this carton presents an absolute top product. Owing to the three-part packaging, the saddle remains firmly connected to the base where it is protected from falling out through a special anchor. The collection can also be wall-mounted. The flexibility of the presentation with a part of the packaging was the key to global success!

Official Name of Entry | Reload, the perfume mini-spray Entrant | Snel BV

Carton Producer | Snel BV
 Brand Owner | Reload labs
 Structural Designer | Kasper digitale media bvba
 Graphic Designer | Tom Hoens
 Cartonboard Manufacturer | Iggesund

Jury Comments:

The product created by 'Reload' uses perfume sprays from major fragrance houses and is a housing for these perfumes but these different housings can be used over and over again. The carton packaging appealed to the judges in the way it held the elements in place as well as the detailed internal printing as well.

One for all

The idea came from a company which develops disruptive solutions for the beauty market. The core idea was to find a packaging which works both in-store and online. Due to the small quantities, consumers can test the desired perfume inexpensively. The enclosed voucher can be used for additional information and offers the consumer a discount if they register on the customer's website with a code, enabling further contact. Numerous perfume manufacturers have signed up to this concept and created own looks according to their corporate design. This has resulted in high-end designs with embossing, gold foil and a printed inner carton. The spray pump included is reusable, promoting the sustainability aspect. The insert which fixates the mini-spray can also be reused and does not need to be disposed of. Fixation of the insert and the voucher was difficult: only cartonboard was able to meet all the requirements of this packaging.

Accommodating

"Bi'rüya" means "a dream" in Turkish. An entirely new chocolate experience was to become reality under this name. The multi-layer carton was to promote the "handmade" feeling. The specially designed display is attractive on the shelf and offers an excellent perspective through the angled design. Due to the success of the packaging, the customer has already transferred the concept to a further brand.

Cartonboard is more

The briefing: to replace the previous packaging made entirely of PET, which tended to crack quickly, through a hybrid packaging made of cartonboard with a significantly lower plastic ratio. The new design allows viewing the product from three sides. The holistic approach was of overall importance: construction, production and packaging processes are perfectly aligned.

Salt of the earth

Carton was chosen, as it offers the greatest flexibility for small batches, but also because it offers sufficient space for advertising, and, of course, because Maldon has always been packaged in cartons, making it part of the brand identity. Creative design can be tested stepwise for various batches and allows scalable activation. The salt is exported to 60 countries. Response via Social Media from customers, buyers and even end consumers, was overwhelming.
